

Facilitators Coaching and Personal Development specialises in results oriented business coaching for managers and teams.

How can Facilitators Coaching help you?

Facilitators offer a variety of coaching and personal development programmes that focus on getting the best out of the people in your business. We develop programmes that are tailored specifically to meet business and personal needs and also offer highly targeted off-the-shelf programmes in business leadership. We can provide independent, specialist support and resource and deliver maximum value to both participants and their organisation.

We have a wide network of experienced coaches, from a broad spectrum of backgrounds – public and private sector, UK and international, management and HR development - who have been assessed through our Investors in People (IIP) process.

We can help you by providing a specific focus on improving performance through our specialist areas of:

- Business Leadership Development

Helping individuals maximise their potential as business leaders

- Group and Team Effectiveness

Helping management teams to improve their effectiveness

- Personal Career Development

Helping individuals who are emerging leaders, facing redundancy or appraising options for second careers focus on the future whilst delivering in the present

What are the benefits?

- Added value to your business – We provide tailored programmes that maximise the value of your most important asset - people
- Increased retention – personal development is a key factor in employee motivation
- Smooth transition - from supervisory positions, to management, to business leadership and second careers, our programmes make transitions happen smoothly and effectively

Our experience

Some typical engagements include:

- Coaching of individual managers, focussed on the attainment of business goals
- Development of new management teams, focussed on the alignment of goals and working practices required to achieve them
- Personal career development counselling of key staff, to ensure the rounded development of skills and experience, ready for future promotions
- Pre-retirement planning for mid-career professionals, focussed on personal goals, health, finance and making the transition to second careers.
